Notes:

1. For taxation years ending on or after April 7, 2022, the tax treatment of investment income earned by a CCPC has been extended to apply to investment income earned by a substantive CCPC. A substantive CCPC is defined as a private corporation (other than a CCPC) that is controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by one or more Canadian resident individuals, or would, if all shares held by Canadian resident individuals were owned by a particular individual, be controlled by that particular individual.
2. For taxation years ending after 2015, the refundable additional Part I tax on investment income earned by a CCPC is 10.67%. For taxation years ending on or after April 7, 2022, this tax also applies to investment income earned by a substantive CCPC. The resulting federal rate applicable to investment income earned by a CCPC or substantive CCPC is 38.67%. The additional refundable tax as well as a portion of the regular Part I tax paid on the investment income is refundable to the CCPC or substantive CCPC as follows: 30.67% of the investment income is added to the corporation's non-eligible refundable dividend tax on hand account (or a CCPC's refundable dividend tax on hand (RDTOH) account for taxation years beginning before 2019) and is refundable at a rate of 38.33% of taxable dividends paid. The 13.00% federal general rate reduction does not apply to investment income earned by a CCPC or substantive CCPC.
3. In June 2018, the government enacted changes to the RDTOH regime that limit the circumstances in which the payment of eligible dividends triggers a dividend refund, effective for taxation years beginning after 2018, subject to transitional rules. Under these rules, eligible dividends may be paid only out of a private corporation's eligible refundable dividend tax on hand account.
4. The federal general rate reduction of 13.00% applies to the base federal rate of 28.00% for active business income not eligible for other incentives, as well as to investment income earned by a corporation other than a CCPC or substantive CCPC.
