What is EY CAFTA Case Championship?

01

EY CAFTA Case Championship 2026 is a strategic learning initiative designed to provide students with access to differentiated, real-world approaches to finance and treasury decision-making.

02

It is time to test your problem-solving skills in the real world. Can you work on these problem statements to deliver original, creative and innovative solutions to drive a business strategy?

03

CAFTA Case Championship 2026 - 11th edition brings real-world scenarios, high-priority problem statements that expect the participants to analyze the case statement and come up with a comprehensive solution

Are you the one who can create innovative strategies and deliver effective solutions to drive business strategies?
If yes, put on a Consultant's hat and participate in the EY CAFTA Case Championship!

This competition will provide you with a valuable learning experience and a chance to network with professionals in the field.

Welcome to Market masters: Winning with commodities

Step into a strategic role and solve real commodity market challenges.

A commodity market is a place where raw materials and primary products—like oil, gold, wheat, and metals—are bought and sold. These basic goods are essential for everyday life and industries around the world. Commodity markets help businesses and investors manage the risks of changing prices by allowing them to trade these goods or contracts for future delivery.

Where price volatility, supply risk and global uncertainty converge – can you turn disruption into advantage? This stream tests your ability to manage commodity price risk, design effective sourcing and hedging strategies, and unlock value across the value chain – all while responding to shifting market dynamics and global events.

What you will learn:

- Managing commodity price volatility and risk
- Making strategic sourcing and hedging decisions
- Understanding the impact of global events on commodity markets
- Unlocking value across the commodity value chain

Why it matters

This stream helps you think like a seasoned commodities professional—making smart, strategic choices around risk, cost and value in complex, real-world business scenarios

The case study will encourage you to understand the complex financial scenarios in the industry space. All participants will receive learning material to understand the fundamentals of the commodity market

Why should I participate?

Voices of success: Testimonials from past participants

“

The modules are well designed, and it makes you interested to know more. Solving the case involved holistic research of the treasury market in detail, and it helped me learn how to structure my thought process. Also, the mentorship session was very helpful in this regard. Overall, it was a really great learning experience. Thank you for organizing this.

Vidhan Agrawal

From developing innovative currency risk management strategies, implementing Python libraries for forecasting models, to analyzing the regulatory landscape of treasury management in India, this experience has undoubtedly enhanced our knowledge and prepared us for future success in the world of finance. The modules provided by the team provided us with all the preliminary knowledge required for the contest.

Yash Pratap Singh
