Michael Cassidy is an entrepreneur who has started and exited multiple companies. He founded and served as Undertone CEO for 14 years (acquired in 2015 by Perion (NASDAQ: PERI)). He created a family office (August Spark) to make private investments, including purchasing BVA, the largest Shopify Plus agency in the US (acquired by Accenture (NYSE: ACN) in 2022). Michael launched his third company, M3, in 2023, to create new revenue streams for merchants, retailers, and e-commerce companies by capturing advertising and sponsorship dollars from Fortune 1000 marketers. Michael Connolly

CEO, Sonobi

Entrepreneur Of The Year 2018 Regional winner

+ view LinkedIn profile

Michael Connolly, CEO of Sonobi, cofounded the company in 2012 to deliver his vision for the future of AdTech. Today, Sonobi is the leading technology provider of people-based marketing solutions, which enable media transactions against individuals in ways that are relevant, predictable and measurable. A serial entrepreneur, Michael's first venture was an online web applications company that attracted more than 30 million unique visitors and 1.5 billion ad impressions per month by the time it was acquired in 2012. This success followed him to Sonobi, a company that serves clients in North America, EMEA and Australia.

Though ultimately product driven, Michael nonetheless has deep operational experience and the rare ability to master details without ever losing sight of the big picture. Not content with simply charting Sonobi's path forward, he has a deep understanding of all aspects of Sonobi's operational and technology systems. This has enabled him to create an overarching framework for his company that is forward thinking, innovative, fiscally responsible and technologically sound.

Michael has spent many years learning to lead gracefully under pressure and his leadership skills are battle-hardened. He was a U.S. Army officer and military aviator who served as a battle captain during the Iraq War. As a UH 60 helicopter pilot, he flew multiple missions throughout central Iraq. These experiences, combined with his background as an entrepreneur, have been instrumental in developing his leadership philosophy, which is rooted in integrity, accountability and adaptability.

A 2018 winner of the prestigious Entrepreneur Of The Year Award, Michael has also been recognized as one of Florida's most successful young executives under 40 by the Orlando Business Journal. While in service, he was awarded the Air Medal for Meritorious Service in Combat. He holds a Master of Business Administration from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Before founding District Partners, Josh served as Executive Vice President at Addison Group, where he spent nearly 15 years in recruitment and headhunting. He played a key role in scaling the firm from 40 employees to more than 2,000, driving nearly a billion dollars in revenue before its successful exit to private equity. Earlier in his career, Josh honed his finance skills at a top international asset management firm but soon realized his passion extended beyond spreadsheets and financials. This experience laid the foundation for his journey, reinforcing his commitment to finance while inspiring him to approach it from a different perspective.

On a personal note, Josh and Stacey have a 2.5-year-old daughter, Livie, with another child on the way. An avid traveler, he enjoys skiing, biking and playing tennis, often seeking out remote destinations for his next adventure. Professionally, he is committed to investing in early-stage companies, leveraging his expertise to help them scale and achieve sustainable growth.

Ken LaRoe

Founder, CEO and Chairman, Climate First Bancorp

Entrepreneur Of The Year 2024 Regional winner

+ view LinkedIn profile

Ken LaRoe came out of retirement to establish Climate First Bank in 2021. After successfully launching two banks in South Florida, Ken returned to the industry because of his conviction there was more he could do to fight climate change. He raised more than $44 million in just one year to establish Climate First Bank. Ken brought the bank to market in the turbulent economy of the pandemic but was propelled to launch by the knowledge that time was not on the side of climate change. He believed the best thing he could do for the community and the world was to launch the bank as soon as possible, even if it was a great risk for himself, personally and professionally. Since this launch, the bank has continually expanded its physical and digital banking offerings. While still in de novo status, Ken has led the development of digital services that are used by customers in 49 states. All Climate First Bank customers can access specialized programs such as the nation's simplest solar lending platform as well as LGBTQ+-affirming pride banking, in addition to traditional banking rates competitive with the nation's largest banks. In early 2023, the bank exceeded $500 million in assets, making it one of the fastest-growing banks in the United States. Climate First Bank is the nation's first FDIC-insured, full-service community bank founded to combat the climate crisis. While traditional banking often invests customers' assets in financing fossil fuels, Climate First Bank's customer deposits fund solar loans for consumers and businesses. The bank provides a deeply necessary alternative to the industry standard of banking, allowing consumers to have a say in what their hard-earned money is funding. Climate First Bank's offerings and services enable customers to easily live out an environmentally ethical lifestyle. The bank is a Certified B Corp and member of the Global Alliance for Banking on Values.
